

i think that the FCC should not regulate content broadcasted on cable for two reasons. One being that those who have cable pay for it and know what they are receiving, and second, if any subscriber has a problem with a channel they can block that channel or restrict it by contacting their cable company.